

newsletter

January 1, 2010

Charter Flight, LLC now brings to you a brand new and refreshing website. As you read this, the website may still be under construction. However, check back often because, when it is finished, you can enjoy many of the new services Charter Flight offers. Services include podcasts, newsletters, and an internet ground school.

Podcasts will tell you what's going on at Charter Flight as well as some current events in aviation and the news in general. There will also be some flying tips to help students and professional pilots alike. You will be able to download the podcasts on the Charter Flight website or subscribe to them on iTunes.

This is the very first newsletter from Charter Flight. Newsletters will contain news about Charter Flight and general aviation and will be published monthly. If you have any ideas for topics, please feel free to email us at the email address provided below. The current newsletter will be published on the website, and older newsletters will be available for download in PDF.

The most exciting part of our new services at Charter Flight is the Internet Ground School. This is a unique video ground school course that allows you to prepare for your written tests online at your convenience. The courses are designed to be just like you were sitting in a ground school classroom. You will even be able to ask questions! The best part is that it will be considerably cheaper than a traditional ground school.

Qur mission at Charter Flight, LLC is to provide quality aviation instruction, and to glorify God in all we do. As the owner of Charter Flight, I pledge to bring to you the best possible products and services.